

External Feedback

Various stakeholders can provide feedback to the working product during a project, beyond any formal review and feedback sessions required by the organization. The frequency and method of collecting feedback through reviews varies depending on the case, but a couple of good practices are:

- Capture each review in the backlog as a separate user story.
 - Standardize the tasks that implement this user story.
 - Plan for a review user story per Epic / Feature in your backlog proactively.
-

Last update: April 25, 2022

